In the second half, when the teams were faced around, the visitors made some desperate attempts to score. Norwich had an easy lead and played merely to hold it, making the game slow in the last half. Brennan succeeded in beating the Norwich goal-keeper at close quarters, but the point was more in the nature of a gift than anything else. The close of the two 35-minute halves left the score Norwich 4, Jewett City 1. Mr. Walker was referee and F. Pierson the Norwich linesman.

M'GRATH ANSWERS BARNES. Will Wrestle for Side Bet or Back His Training Partner.

Jim Barnes, the Springfield wrestler, recently stated through The Bulletin that he was waiting to hear from Jack that he was waiting to hear from Jack McGrath regarding an unanswered challenge issued by Barnes for a straight match to a finish, Upon McGrath's return from a trip to New York he was informed of Barnes' defi, which he now answers by saying that he will meet the Springfield man and wrestle him in private for any side bet that Barnes wants to name. Or he will wrestle him in public for a bet that Barnes wants to name. Or he will wrestle him in public for a suitable side bet and give the entire gate receipts to any charitable institu-tion in Norwich that the Sporting Ed-itor of The Bulletin will name. And McGrath also has another proposition for Barnes. McGrath now has a wrestling partner. Dan Murphy, and he will back him for $100 on the propo-sition that Barnes can't throw Murphy sition that Barnes can't throw Murphy twice in an hour. there are also competing several men whose faces are unknown to Americans.

The track, a hig wooden saucer-shaped oval of ten laps to the mile, is more steeply banked at the turns than in former years, and it is expected that this will enable the winner of the event to beat the old record of 2.737 miles and one lap made by McFarland and Moran last December.

Following are the contestants:
Boston-Buffalo team—Patrick Logan, Boston, Walter Bardgett, Buffalo. Dixle-Yankess team—Bobby Walthour, Atlanta, Elmer Collins, Boston.

Hart Elected Princeton Captain.

Edward J. Hart of Exeter, N. H., was elected captain of the Princeton university football team for next year at a meeting held in Princeton Saturday afternoon. Hart is a mention of the Princeton Saturday afternoon. Hart is a many saturday in the past. Grant, for the Quakers, really improved. He was almost up to provide the past of the past.

Jack Johnson is afraid of Jim Jeffries, according to Charles Kid Cutler, says the Toledo Blade. Cutier says Johnson trembles whenever he gets in the same city with Jeff.

"When Johnson was in New York
he kept sending men over to see Jeff in action. They all reported he was in good shape, but Johnson wouldn't believe it, so he went himself. Then he was more frightened than ever," said Cutier.

Versity football team for next year at a meeting held in Princeton Saturday afternoon. Hart is a sophomore and played fullback on this year's eleven.
Commenting on this election, the New Haven Register says:

"The election of Edward Hart as captain of the Princeton football eleven is a disgrace to football and to Princeton. This is no time to keep on an eleven a man whose neck has been broken once and who was saved from death or crippling for life only because a dislocated veretbra slipped back into place almost miraculously. Much less is it the time to elect such a near-cripple for captain of a big university team. Yale should decline, for the good of the gridiron sport, to arrange a game of football with the Tigers till they choose a captain who is not in danger of receiving a broken neck every time he is tackled hard.

OPINIONS ON JEFFRIES.

broken after two or three one-minute rounds of light sparring with Berger, says teh New York Sun. This work is far different from rounds of three minutes each at top speed, at the same time giving and taking heavy blows. Jeffries and Johnson are matched to go "forty-five rounds or more." If the bout should end with the forty-fifth round the men would be in the ring exactly three hours, of which two hours and fifteen minutes would be consumed by actual fighting. Jeffries, never an aggressive pugilist, must contend with the greatest defense boxer in the world, which is taken to mean that the mill which is taken to mean that world, which is taken to mean that the mill may be a long drawn out test of endurance. For that season Jeffries, it is believed will have to be absolutely fit as to stamins, which involves lung power, if he expects to beat this formidable colored man.

Opposed to the foregoing is the following from the Boston Globe:

One of the best known physicians in One of the best known physicians in Boston, who was at the show, said after seeing Jeffries do his abdominal exercise, that anyone who could go through that exercise and show no effects from it was able to box for a kingdom.

Another physician stated that Jeffries is now just right to go through a hard slege of training. Some of the old time sports, however, could see nothing but defeat for Jeffries when he meets Johnson.

NO BRILLIANT THIRD SACKERS. Off Year in the Majors-Devlin About the Best, but Not What He Was

While the general plaint of the fans—that the all round play of 1909 was not up to that of previous seasons—may not be really justified, there seems little doubt that at one point of the diamond the class of ball shown in 1909 fell away from that of two or three years back; in fact, retrograded quite noticeably.

So far as the figures are concerned, no change is apparent—the averages no change is apparent—the averages grade up about the same. But the dash, dazzling brilliancy, scintillating beauty of third base play, the class shown when Collins and Bradley were at the height of their careers, was at the height of their careers, was lacking. It cropped out now and then, and there were some splendid displays round third base in both leagues, but taking the season as a whole the work at the far corner was disappointing. Few new stars came out, and the older men are retrograding.

Pittsburg's third corner was guarded by Barbeau through most of the campaign—a hard working little fel-low, but very much under the class to which all third sackers must be comwhich all third eachers must be compared—that of Bradley and Collins. Byrne finished the season—a hustler, but for all round skill and execution far below the highest grade. Steinfeldt, one of the oldest third basemen now in service, had a good year for the Cubs, worked hard, covered more ground than in 1908, and looked more than good, but at his best was never the polished beauty that Bill Bradley used to be.

used to be.

Arthur Devin of New York sized up as just about the top class for 1909. He was as good as any third base-man in either league. He was as neat on the pickup, as strong on the throw as reliable after the fly and in taking the catcher's hurl as any man who could be named, and yet Arthur is not quite as good as he used to be. The class, in other words, has gone back faster than Devlin, and he now looms really improved. He was almost up to Devlin in all round value, and was one of the few third basemen to show a perceptible gain in his quality.

Brooklyn's third baseman, Lennox, formerly of this city, is hardly developed. He showed flashes of sturdy quality, and is especially good in blocking grounders, and in another season may be at the top. Just now he cannot be rated as the best, or within three or four netches of it.

Bresnahan had the same men used by Pittsburg—Byrne and Barbeau—and also acquired, but seldom used, Mike Mowrey. This man, in health, can play a more finished, workmanlike third than either Barbeau or Byrne, and has a lot of ability about him.

Sweeney of Boston is somewhat era lot of ability about him.

Sweeney of Boston is somewhat erratic, tries hard, makes many neat plays, but does not class with the great men who played the bag before at Boston—Sutton, Nash, McGarr and Collins. Boston was the one place where third base was grandly played for thirty years, and the Hub fans expect too high a standard from their stars.

CORNELL CREWS.

Ithacan Collegians Have Been Far Superior on the Hudson. A survey of the records of the four teen regatts that have been held at Poughkeepsie by the minor college rowing association since its inception in 1895 and the single regatta at Saratoga in 1898, shows that Cornell's varsity eights have been far superior to the crews of her competitors. Cor-nell also leads in freshmen eights, but in the varsity fours the decision must be awarded to Syracuse; but only be-cause Cornell's four was compelled to abandon the race in 1998 after it had been won to all intents and purposes.

This mishap loses for Cornell the unbietnished title of queen of the river, ore which the Ithacans undoubtedly deserve in view of their remarkable performances.

Fifteen times Cornell yarsity eightcared crews have started in contests for supremacy, and nine times the red and white has been victorious at the finish. Thrice Cornell has been second and thrice third. This record is one and thrice third. This record is one that Cornell may well boast of. The average position of Cornell's crews in these 15 races hus been 1.60, only a fraction worse than first. Pennsylvania has three victories to her credit, but for all that the percentage is exactly the same as Columbia's first one. While Syracuse, with two first places, is further down the list.

The positions that the various colleges had in the 15 regattas were as follows:

First—Cornell 9, Pennsylvania 3,
Syracuse 2, Columbia 1.
Second—Columbia 5, Cornell 2, Wisconsin 3, Pennsylvania 2, Syracuse 1,
